NICHOLAS WOOLF

DIRECTOR AND PRINCIPAL, SOLICITOR

Nicholas Woolf was admitted as a solicitor in 1979 and became a partner in a London firm in 1981. He went on to set up his own firm in London's West End, which later merged to become Woolf Simmonds.

During his lengthy legal career, Nick has gained an unrivalled breadth and depth of experience. This gives him a rare ability to understand, and advise on, a wide range of matters. He also has extensive international experience.

Nick has particular expertise in advising upon shareholder, director and partnership disputes as well as other commercial disputes. He is also highly regarded in family law and family business law and has conducted a number of substantial cases. In addition, Nick has advised and lectured other professionals on anti-money laundering and family law.

TESTIMONIALS

"Nicholas Woolf acted for a prominent client of my firm and brought and successfully pursued professional negligence proceedings on behalf of that client in the High Court in London. I would have no hesitation in recommending Nicholas as a thoughtful, experienced and diligent lawyer who is capable of holding his own against multi-partner international firms and also to provide a very personal service."

Malaysia, Law Firm

"Nicholas Woolf has acted for my family company for the last 20 years. His advice has helped both the Company and the family in saving considerable amounts of money and he has assisted us in a wide range of situations both within the Company and personally always having provided careful, considered and sensible advice."

UK, Family Company

"Nick has acted for my group of companies who are based in London, Sydney and New York over a number of years. He was pivotal in our international reorganisation and has since helped us with the growth of the company. He is well connected, sound and decisive and continues to provide my group of companies with reliable advice."

Owner of International Digital Marketing Company

"I have known Nick Woolf for very many years. My firm has employed his services in London and I found him to be a proactive and diligent lawyer. He would be my first port of call if I were looking for a lawyer in England or Wales."

New York, Law Firm

"I have known Nick for many years and he has always been most professional and a great source of sensible and well-founded legal advice. I would commend him to anyone needing a practical approach to the law."
